EXECUTIVE CERTIFICATE TRACK

Management and Leadership

This eight-day program is a transformative learning experience designed to fit the time constraints and needs of experienced executives representing diverse industries and countries. Taught by world-renowned MIT Sloan faculty, the Global Executive Academy focuses on a wide variety of management topics such as leadership development, strategy and innovation, analytics management, negotiation, finance, and executive productivity. Interactive lecture sessions expose key frameworks and methodologies that can be immediately applied to drive change and improve performance on an individual, team and organizational level. The opportunity to engage with and learn alongside peers over the course of eight days fosters a unique community of learners that will extend after you leave MIT. Upon completing the program, you will earn an Executive Certificate in Management and Leadership.

What I learned during this experience has changed the way I understand the process of leadership, innovation, analytics management, productivity, finances or change management, through a set of powerful tools developed at MIT such as the 4 capabilities of leadership, Systems Thinking or Dynamic Work Design. Highly recommended to any leader or manager looking for a transformative experience.
